Beth is a partner in Hagens Berman Sobol Shapiro's Chicago office where she has worked since 2004. Her practice includes a variety of complex commercial class-action cases in the areas of antitrust, consumer protection and product liability. Beth's recent successes include a $35 million settlement in a nationwide antitrust class action on behalf of consumers against Babies 'R Us and manufacturers of high-end strollers, high chairs, carriers, car seats, as well as a settlement that provides up to $25 million in refunds to purchasers of Blue Rhino propane tanks in a nationwide antitrust class action.

Moreover, Beth has successfully tailored creative results for the benefit of nationwide classes. For example, Beth settled a nationwide class action alleging sexual harassment on behalf of 16,000 current and former female employees of a commercial property brokerage firm. In addition to requiring changes to human resources policies and procedures, the innovative settlement afforded class members the opportunity to participate in a stream-lined claims process that provides the potential for individual awards up to $150,000 per class member.

Before Hagens Berman Sobol Shapiro, Beth was a partner at The Wexler Firm in Chicago. Her legal work consisted of finance lending discrimination lawsuits, pharmaceutical and antitrust litigation, civil rights charges and suits, and auditing and accounting malpractice litigation. She also served as legal writing instructor at the Loyola University Chicago School of Law.

While previously practicing at Shefsky & Froelich, Ltd. in Chicago, Beth served in several local government appointments and on a special master team in federal and state court. The local government appointments included positions as special assistant corporation counsel to the city of Chicago, the Chicago Park District and the Public Building Commission of Chicago.

Beth received her law degree from Loyola University Chicago School of Law in 1995. While there, she was editor at large of the Loyola Law Journal in which she published "Home Rule Hits the Road in Illinois: American Telephone & Telegraph Company v. Village of Arlington Heights."

Beth is admitted in the State of Illinois; the Courts of Appeals for the Third, Seventh and Eighth Circuits; and the U.S. District Courts for the Northern, Central and Southern Districts of Illinois, and the District of Colorado.
