

Antitrust Litigation

Hagens Berman has earned an enviable reputation as experts in this often-confusing and combative area of corporate litigation. Our antitrust legal team takes an innovative and efficient approach to this form of litigation and tries each case with unmatched determination.

Hagens Berman's antitrust attorneys work to preserve healthy competition and fair trade in the marketplace by protecting consumers and businesses that purchase goods and services from price-fixing, market allocation agreements, monopolistic schemes and other violations of antitrust law.

Our attorneys have a deep understanding of the legal and economic issues within the marketplace, allowing us to employ groundbreaking market theories that shed light on monopolistic, restrictive and anti-competitive practices in violation of both federal and state antitrust and unfair competition laws.

Hagens Berman currently represents millions of consumers in several high-profile class-action antitrust lawsuits, and takes on major antitrust litigation that has the potential to improve market conditions for consumers and businesses. We have represented plaintiffs in markets as diverse as debit and credit cards services, personal computer components, television screens, electric and gas power, airlines, personal computer software, computer games and internet services.

In the pharmaceutical arena, Hagens Berman represents purchasers of all types in lawsuits alleging that drug companies illegally blocked or delayed generic drugs from coming to market. By keeping generics out of the market, drug companies force purchasers to continue buying their expensive brand-name drugs, lining drug companies' pockets at the expense of those who pay for drugs. Our firm's pharmaceutical antitrust recoveries have returned many hundreds of millions of dollars to purchasers.

We are proud of our track record which includes some of the largest recoveries in the nation. As in all practice areas we fight until we have achieved a high percent recovery for our clients.