

Intellectual Property

Hagens Berman brings to its intellectual property practice the same core values that have brought us tremendous success in litigating against major companies for classes of plaintiffs – we fight for the underdog.

We represent intellectual property owners – inventors, universities and companies – in high stakes patent and other IP litigation. The members of our team have litigated patent cases in nearly every major patent venue in the country, as well as the Federal Circuit and the International Trade Commission. Our IP litigators have tried and won patent cases, recovering on or beating nine-figure patent infringement claims at trial. We work hard to deliver positive results for our clients, and typically base our fees on the results we deliver.
